A message from the Head of Mission

As part of our continuous support to Palestinian criminal justice institutions, we were delighted to support a training, this time in Amman, for 11 prosecutors specialised in economic crimes at the Judicial Institute of Jordan. During the four days of training, the attendees had the opportunity to exchange their expertise on intellectual property. They also discussed legal arguments for adjudication and practical exercises. I would like to thank all the participants as well as the two prominent lecturers -- Advocate Osama Al Bitar Head of the Regional Office of the Arab Federation for the Protection of Intellectual Property Rights and Judge Hisham Tarawna – who enriched the expertise of the participants.

EUPOL COPPS supports training for 11 Palestinian prosecutors in Amman ma Al Bitar Head of the Regional Office of the Arab Federation for the Protection of Intellectual Property Rights and Judge Hisham Tarawna – delivered the training.

EUPOL COPPS support the fight against corruption

The Palestinian Anti-Corruption Commission (PACC) and the Palestinian Civil Police (PCP) held a roundtable session on Anti Corruption Law.

The roles and tasks covered by both the PACC and the Palestinian police in combating corruption crimes in Palestine were also discussed. This event took place with the support and participation of EUPOL COPPS. Commissioner Mr. Rafiq Al-Natsheh opened the session along with Brigadier Adil Helles, representing the Chief of the Palestinian Police. Mr. Rodolphe Mauguet was representing EUPOL COPPS mission in this opening session. The colleagues from PACC delivered a presentation about the Anti Corruption Law and their role in combating this type of crimes. The Palestinian Civil Police gave a presentation on their role in combating corruption crimes.

EUPOL COPPS deliverers training and IT equipment to the PCP

EUPOL COPPS organised another workshop for senior Palestinian Civil Police (PCP) officers on strategic communications. Heads of district commanders and public relations officers in the districts along with media and public relations administration attended the workshop.

The aim of the event is to enhance the coordination between all relevant parties within the PCP and to provide accurate and timely information to the media. The training also dealt with the best ways to handle the media especially in crisis time. The audience expressed their willingness to implement the skills that they have learned in their day to day work.
