

Haber visits occupied Palestinian territories

The EU Civilian Operations Commander Hansjörg Haber paid a two-day visit to occupied Palestinian territories where he visited EUPOL COPPS Headquarters in Ramallah. “EUPOL COPPS is one of the best 11 civilian (CSDP) Missions” said Mr. Haber at a Press Conference with Chief of Palestinian Police, Major General Hazem Attallah and Head of EUPOL COPPS Kenneth Deane. Haber also praised the performance of the Palestinian Civil Police (PCP), one of the main interlocutors of EUPOL COPPS, adding that the techniques and drills used by the PCP are akin to that used in Europe.

Police complete strategic management training in Cyprus

Four Palestinian Civil Police (PCP) officers participated in a two-week Strategic Management training at the University of Cyprus in Nicosia. The course, organized and funded by EUPOL COPPS, had a number of key objectives including enhancing and improving the planning and strategic units' (RPDA) and human resource capacities, to increase the overall strategic development of the PCP, support the development programmes and externally funded activities for the Palestinian police.

Cybercrime trainings for Palestinian lawyers

EUPOL COPPS organized a cybercrime training for 25 Palestinian lawyers in Ramallah to give them the know-how needed to efficiently and effectively defend the rights of their clients in cybercrime cases. The training, which was held in cooperation with the Palestinian Bar Association (PBA), tackled sensitive issues such as the types of cyber threats, the national and international legal framework applicable in cybercrime cases and the elements needed by defence counsel to defend the rights of their clients in courts.

EUPOL COPPS evaluates language lab for the Palestinian Police

A joint EUPOL COPPS and Palestinian Civil Police (PCP) delegation paid a visit to the Arab American University in Jenin to assess the language lab of the college in order to implement a police operated language lab in the Palestine Academy for Police Sciences in Jericho. EUPOL COPPS police advisers are currently working on a project in order to introduce a concept of foreign languages for PCP officers.

Police officers attend course on Economic Crime

EUPOL COPPS developed and delivered a three-day course on Economic Crimes for nine police officers from the Palestinian Civil Police to enhance their understanding and capabilities in combating such offences. This course aimed at providing awareness on several varieties of economic crimes activities including credit card fraud and other illegal activities (Internet fraud, money laundering and intellectual property crimes) and to enable participants to teach other officers dealing with such crimes to a basic level.
